The Butterfly and the Wasp

In ancient times, it was believed that butterflies came from the spirit and soul of a person, but wasps emerged from dead mules. In their second lives, the butterfly feels useless compared to the wasp, and is jealous of its abilities. But the wasp says, "It matters not what we were, it matters what we are now."

We never want to be stuck in the past. We're always trying to evolve, finding new and fun places and people to work with and engage with.

Winemaking

We intentionally grew and picked these grapes to make rosé (no saignée). The Mourvèdre comes from dry farmed, head trained vines at Old Potrero in Arroyo Grande, CA. The Blaufränkisch is from our Pomar estate, originally planted for legendary winemaker Ken Volk. The grapes were sent directly to press whole cluster, and fermented in stainless steel tanks with native yeasts. We blended and bottled it in December 2021 to retain its youthful, bright energy and freshness.

Tasting Notes

Spring to life with the scent of sharp green apples and spark of bright acidity, then soothed with refreshing notes of cream soda, ripe strawberries and river rock.
